

Manufacturer of Powdered Metal Components

Stainless

Phoenix Sintered Metals produces a number of different stainless steel components for the automotive, industrial and sporting arms markets. These parts range in sizes from small to large, requiring our larger tonnage molding capabilities. We have the ability to maximize the corrosion resistance and weldability of these products, utilizing our high temperature sintering capabilities with 100% hydrogen atmosphere.

